Cyclo Model 5 Twin 4" Head Orbital Buffer & "95-5" Cotton Flannel

Nuvite #EQ-137 Cyclo Model 5 110v Twin Head Orbital Polisher (Includes Hook & Loop adapter boots and foam backup pads)

Nuvite recommended metal polishing procedures begin with proper surface compounding with a circular buffer, and then final finishing with the Cyclo orbital buffer using Nuvite's NuShine II Grade S polish. This process is surprisingly fast and easy, and gives you that deep, "Nuvite Look" image with the least amount of time, expertise and effort. Our "Metal Polishing Procedures" link is available at our www.nuvitechemical.com web site, and are pdf file downloadable. They will give you the full story on the most effective and easiest method we've ever found to get the best results.

The process is based upon a method originally developed by the Swift Museum Foundation. The Cyclo buffer is used for final finishing by using cotton flannel (sweatshirt material) in sheet form, wrapped around the twin heads of the buffer when buffing with Nuvite Grade S. The free-turning Cyclo heads are prevented from spinning, and the flannel allows only the orbital action to operate. The result is the most gorgeous, clear, swirl-free image you've ever seen!

The Cyclo is a very high quality machine, and it will outlast almost any buffer we know of - and then you can get parts from Cyclo to make it work even longer. It will save you in the long run, as the Model 5 makes the job easy enough that you can maintain a beautiful polish job while curbing the man hours and effort every time you buff!

Nuvite supplies the Cyclo with normally optional hook and loop adapter boots for the heads, and foam pads as a package deal to save you time.
